1.2 Summary of the Action

Political instability, institutional weaknesses, deficient infrastructures, high inequalities and a growing insecurity in some regions in Peru are shaking citizen's confidence in the system and possibly reducing the country attractivity for international investors.

The current perception by the population of increased insecurity, the growing trend of coca crop extension with a direct impact both in the environment (deforestation) and on the security of the population and the increased impact of environmental and other trafficking crimes are a shared concern as with a direct impact for the European Union (EU).
